REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

Call for the Annual Convention of the State League.

The fourth annual convention of the Republican League of the State of West Virginia will convene in the city of Parkersburg, Wood county, at 12 o'clock noon, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1892, (this day having been recommended by the National League), for the election of officers for the ensuing year, the selection of delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Republican League of the United States, and for the transaction of such other business as may regularly come before it.

Each Republican club in the state is entitled to be represented by five delegates. It is requested that the election of delegates be held and a list thereof be forwarded to the Secretary of the State League at Parkersburg, W. Va., as soon as possible.

Full information as to the rates of transportation will be published as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

HENRY C. FLESHER, President. R. ALEXANDER, Secretary.

Mr. Reilly's Peculiar Will.

The will of the late Michael Reilly is a decidedly peculiar document, and so far as its provisions have become known it has excited surprise. One son is cut off with ten dollars, the will setting forth that this is all he is entitled to in view of what he has already received. In this case the will may be just and reasonable.

The other sons, a married daughter, the widow of a son and the children of all these are practically disinherited by the creation of a remarkable trust. When the last of the children and grandchildren has passed away the estate is to be divided among the great-grandchildren. Meanwhile the trustees are to make such provision as they think suitable for the support of the children and grandchildren, being cautioned not to be too liberal.

Each one of the children who are to receive the limited benefits under this unlimited trust is an adult having a family. The sons who come under the trust are steady-going business men of good character, competent to take up and carry on their father's business, in which they were raised. No reason is assigned and none is easily imagined why such an indignity should be put upon them. Nor is it plain why the testator should have been unwilling to distribute his large fortune among his children or his grandchildren, whom he knew, and willing to let his great-grandchildren, not yet born, do as they may please with it. Without explanation the conditions seem hard and unnatural. It may be that they will be held to be against public policy, which would set aside the will.

An unusual burden is laid on the trustees, who, if they execute their trust according to its letter and its spirit, must inquire closely, even minutely, into the manner of living of the beneficiaries, their needs and their expenditures, and may if they please so discharge this part of their duties as to make the father's fortune a cause of shame and mortification to the adult sons and daughters.

The trustees are to name their successors and nobody can foretell what manner of men the trustees may be before the great-grandchildren come into possession. Such a trust is likely to prove as distasteful to men of right feeling as to the beneficiaries. Altogether this will is a remarkable document.

Let Brice be Turned Over.

The Ohio legislature should not hesitate to pass the resolution of Mr. Brittain, of Columbianna county, providing that steps shall be taken to test the right of Calvin S. Brice to sit as a senator from Ohio.

All the information the public has on the subject tends to show that Brice was not at the time of his election an inhabitant of Ohio. If he was not he is no more entitled to the seat he holds than though a South Sea islander had been imported to take the seat vacated by Henry B. Payne.

It is a question of fact which the senate can determine. If Brice swore to the truth when he swore that he was a resident of Ohio the investigation will not take much of the senate's valuable time.

The Case of John Molnar.

The state of West Virginia has business with Constable McMasters and those who assisted him in the Molnar case. The facts as published in the Intelligencer of yesterday show that there was a clear case of kidnapping and that a certificate of deposit for $320 was unlawfully taken from Molnar in the city of Wheeling.

If Molnar had been a fugitive from Ohio justice there was a lawful way to take him to that state for trial. No law of any state empowers officers to do what was done in the matter of the certificate of deposit. The victim does not understand the English language and, not knowing his rights under the law, seems to have been frightened into the handcuffs and out of West Virginia into Ohio.

The Intelligencer is glad to know that the prosecuting attorney of Ohio county does not intend to allow this pronounced outrage to rest without a vigorous effort to give the offenders a taste of West Virginia justice. It seems to be necessary to teach in an impressive way the lesson that an Ohio constable has no jurisdiction on West Virginia soil.

Stage Children.

Before Little Lord Fauntleroy was heard of there were children on the stage, but the performances of that impossible youngster whetted the public appetite for more stage children and the playwrights and managers set themselves to work to create a supply equal to the demand. The number of stage prodigies has increased largely, to the profit of the managers.

Mr. Gerry's New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is moving on the works of the managers, and the matter is being discussed in the newspapers. Managers, actors, physicians and philanthropists are taking a hand. Managers and actors think it altogether a good thing. As usual the doctors disagree. The philanthropists are on the side of Mr. Gerry and his society.

It is argued that singing and dancing are good for children, and therefore the stage children are in no danger of physical injury. Singing and dancing at right times and in right doses will not injure a healthy child, and most children find delight in both. To go the round night after night under the excitement of appearing in public, the intoxication of the applause, getting into their beds at midnight or later, cannot be regarded as contributing to health and vigorous physical development.

That the moral side of a child will not find its best development in the atmosphere of the stage seems another reasonable conclusion, but we do not see this view touched on in the discussion.

Disreputable Houses.

Speaking of "dives" and disreputable resorts in general, a New York preacher on Sunday last put this straight at his congregation: "Why, I am sure that some of these respectable citizens would lease a building to the devil himself to start an annex to houses in if he would only guarantee them ten per cent more rent and would furnish ice to cool his rent money upon before they came around each month to collect."

A paying investment—considered from the point of dollars and cents—has been known to chloroform the conscience of many a man who passed for a good citizen. It is obvious that if men who like to be so regarded would refuse to rent houses for immoral purposes the number of those establishments would be greatly diminished. The owners have no special fondness for the tenants they accept, but the mighty dollar holds them up and they are powerless in its deadly grasp. The way to treat this kind of citizen is to pity his sordid weakness and hold him up to a strict accountability under the law. If he cannot be reformed as a matter of moral conviction perhaps he can be driven out of the business of renting to the lowest persons for the lowest purposes.

Two Ways of Living.

Only a little while ago Guy de Maupassant, the gifted Frenchman, was entertaining the world with his clever writings. Now he is thought to be hopelessly insane. It was at first said that he had overworked himself. Perhaps he had, but it develops that in addition to whatever else he did he packed himself with morphine, hashish and ether.

A man who desires to play himself out in a hurry may safely trust to these agencies and not try to cut a figure in the field of over-work. It is true that too much work, particularly too much brain work, shortens many a life. It is also true that many a life is shortened by vice, and the result attributed to something else.

The ideal life is an honest day's work, plenty of innocent diversion, plenty of rest, temperance in the treatment of the inner man, cleanliness, godliness.

The candidates for the Democratic convention already in the field and likely to enter are Cincinnati, Kansas City, Omaha, Detroit, Milwaukee, St. Paul and San Francisco. New York will ask for it but will not go after it very hard and does not expect to get it. Kansas City and St. Paul say they have each a guarantee fund of $100,000, and a Milwaukee brewer is quoted as saying that he has $50,000 ready for the cause. The national committee meets January 21, in Washington.

The New York Herald finds that the absorbing interest in Mr. Blaine's health "lies in the fact that the people of this country are divided into two classes—those who are terribly afraid that Mr. Blaine will not be able to make the presidential race next year, and those who are equally afraid that he will be." It is unfortunately true that our countrymen are divided as the Herald says, but isn't the race to be run this year instead of "next year"?

Our Canadian cousins seem to know more about boodling in one administration than we have known since the foundation of our government. How utterly wrong they are who regard the Canadians as slow.

New York is overcrowded with printers, four hundred union men being reported idle. The pressure is so great that it has been resolved to receive no more working cards from outsiders.

The Democratic response to Mr. Springer's programme of non-intervention on the silver question is denunciation with a large D. Well, let the circus begin.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

Hereditary, perhaps.—A correspondent writes Nature that he had a fox terrier puppy which evinces an extraordinary amount of intelligence. It was, he said, taken from its mother when about seven weeks old. There are no other dogs about, and the young canine has never seen others of his kind yet. "He buries bones in the garden with great skill, digging a hole with his fore-paws. He puts in the bone and carefully pushes it down with his nose, and then covers it with garden soil, which is pushed in with his nose. The work is very carefully and elaborately well done."

The Chicago Inter Ocean has an article on the "Genesis of the World's Fair." We confidently look for some brilliant Chronicles of its Acts from our neighbor, when the Kings and peoples of the earth flock to see it in great numbers. We are sure they will indulge in no lamentations, and we trust there will be no Ruth at the decisions of the Judges, though there is generally some Job or Jeremiah who is sad in spite of all Revelations of progress and happiness.—New York Tribune.

A leading Concord (New Hampshire) physician was the surprised recipient on Christmas day of a check for $18 enclosed in a letter, dated in a Pacific coast city, stating that the loan of $5 or $6 made to the sender by the doctor in a western city some thirty years ago, with interest, had reached the amount represented by the check. The recipient cannot recall the circumstances of the loan or the name signed to the letter.

A Georgia editor has a grievance against one of the railroads. He says that he is perfectly willing, in return for an annual pass, to throw on wood at stations, help grease the engine and assist in handling baggage; but when he breaks his leg while chasing a delinquent subscriber through the train, he should be allowed reasonable damages.—Atlanta Constitution.

A year or two ago there was a sudden and unaccountable demand for confederate bonds. We wonder if it can be possible that the per capita cranks bought up the stuff with the intention of using these bonds as the basis of increasing the circulation.—Charleston News and Courier.

Berlin police authorities are trying to devise a method for the more thorough cleansing of beer glasses in restaurants. The city health physicians say that disease is spread by the glasses washed as they are at present.

"What does a volcano do with lava?" asked Freddy. "Give it up," replied his father. "That's right," said Freddy.—Harper's Young People.

Last week in London a Moldavian postage stamp—intrinsic value about 8d—was sold by auction for £49, "after very spirited bidding."—London Truth.

MR. ELKINS' WINTER RESIDENCE

What the Secretary of War Gives Up to go to Washington. The announcement that Secretary Elkins wished to sell his New York house brought out the information that within three or four years he was looking at the best property in this city with a view of purchasing a new winter residence. Among other houses at which he looked was the famous Tilden mansion in Gramercy Park, which was admirably suited to his taste but not location. A house which pleased him exceedingly was at No. 5 West Fifty-first street, immediately in the rear of the lower one of the twin brown stone Vanderbilt houses, in which the widow of the late William H. Vanderbilt resides, with her student son, George, when they are in New York. There is a flower garden in the rear of the Vanderbilt house, upon which the residents of No. 5 may look down with pleasure, and a wide open space that makes the house exceedingly airy and healthy. Mr. Elkins had tried to lower the price named to him for this house for a couple of weeks, when Andrew Carnegie, the Pittsburgh millionaire iron manufacturer, who had either just been married or was about to be married, and was therefore in a frame of mind to spend money freely, heard that this house was for sale, got hold of the agent at about 10 o'clock in the morning, went through the place with a hop, skip and a jump, and before 12 o'clock signed the papers which made the house his property. It is one of the finest mansions in New York, and it can be understood from Mr. Elkins' having sought such property as this and the Tilden mansion, what kind of a home he is giving up on West Fifty-eighth street to go to Washington this winter.

THE BERING SEA SQUABBLE

Before the Cabinet—Probability of an Early Settlement. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—The Bering sea question was before the cabinet meeting to-day. It understood the case has taken a favorable turn within the past few days and that Secretary Blaine has been advised that Lord Salisbury will agree to his suggestion as to the method of selecting three of the arbitrators from the countries which have no interest whatever in the question at issue, when those three neutral arbitrators have been agreed upon there need be no further delay in deciding on the personnel of the tribunal, it already having been arranged that the United States and Great Britain shall each have the appointment of two members. Another point settled is that one of Great Britain's representatives shall be a resident of Canada. The prospects are that one of the arbitrators on the part of the Republican party and the other from the Democratic party. Hon. Edward J. Phelps, ex-minister to England, is mentioned as most likely to be one of the arbitrators on the part of the United States.

NOT ONE SORE NOW.

Baby Afflicted with Bad Sores and Eruptions. No Relief. Permanently Cured by the Cuticura. During the summer of 1889 my eighteen months' old infant was so afflicted with eruptions that ordinary domestic remedies failed to give any relief. On his hips would often appear the scum-like, oozing, little worm-like sores, and on other parts of his body the sores came and remained till I procured the CUTICURA REMEDIES. For some time I used the soap and salve without a blood medicine, but they did not do so well as when all were used together. It has now been nearly a year since the eruption was healed, and I very much feared it would return with the warm weather of this year, but the summer is passed and not one sore has appeared on him. MRS. A. N. WALKER, Carsonville, Ga.

Sore from Waist Down.

I had three of the best physicians in Paducah, and they did me no good. I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and they have cured me. My sores were on my waist down, and I was unable to work. I was cured by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. I owe my life to CUTICURA, for without a blood medicine, they would have been in my grave had it not been for your remedies. Allow me to return my sincerest thanks. W. H. QUALLS, Paducah, Ky.

Cuticura Remedies.

If the thousands of little babies who have been cured of scurvy, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly and blotchy skin and scalp diseases could write, what a host of letters would be received by the proprietors of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, suffer, and when these great remedies relieve in a single application the most distressing eczemas and itching and burning skin diseases, and point to a speedy and permanent cure, it is positively inhuman not to use them without a moment's delay.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c; RESOLVENT, 5c. Prepared by the FORTEN DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."
